27/05/25

1. Where, When and How?

Medieval – The period between AD 700 and AD 1750 in Indian history. Used to describe period between ancient and modern periods

Numismatics – Study of coins issued by rulers

Chronicles – Written account of important or historical events in the order in which they occurred.

Jati (जाति) – A caste or sub caste

Manuscript – A Handwritten Book

Royal Autobiography – Account of ruler's life and achievement written by ruler.

Biographer – Person who writes account of someone's life.

Archaeological – Excavation and analysis of Physical remains to study past human life or culture

Epigraphic – Study and interpretation of ancient inscriptions (Carved on stones and copper plates)

literary – level and quality of writing

Summary of the lesson –

- Medieval period in India extended from eighth century to middle of eighteenth century.
- During this period, turkish invaders bought their religion and culture with them
- The sources of information for this period is archaeological, epigraphic, numismatics and literary sources.
- The Islamic civilization was a prominent civilization during this period.
- Turkish invaders established muslim power in India.

2. New kings and kingdoms (AD 700 – AD 1200)

Tripartite – The struggle between Rastrakutas, Pratiharas and Palas for control over Kanauj. Word means involving three parties

Secular – Not connected with religious or spiritual matters

Clan – A group of close-knit and interrelated families

Jauhar - 'Mass sacrifice' undertaken by women to protect their honour.

Feudatories - Persons who hold land under the feudal system. The nobles got land from the king in exchange for military service

Summary of the lesson -

- Early medieval period saw the rise of 28/08/25 small rajput kingdoms

- The three kingdoms of the Palas, the pratiharas and the Rashtrakutas constantly fought for control over Kanauj to become master of Gangetic valley. This is known as Tripartite struggle.

- Besides pratiharas another rajput clan which rose to the political power was the Chauhans of Ajmer and Delhi.

- Turkish Invasion: Mahmud of Ghazni invaded India seventeen times between AD 1000 - AD 1250. But his sole purpose was to plunder the wealth of India.

- Muhammad Ghori Invasions: He was defeated at the first battle of Tarain in 1191. In the second battle of Tarain in AD 1192 he defeated Prithviraj Chauhan. India passed into the hands of Turkish sultans.

3. Kingdoms of the South (AD 700 - AD 1200) -

Mandalam - A province of Chola kingdom

Hereditary - Title or position that is acquired on account of blood relationship

Nattar - District Council

Nagaratta - City Council

Valanadu - District under the Cholas

Brahmadeya - Land gifted to Brahmins

Matha - Religious centres set up by Shankaracharya

Summary of the lesson -

- During the medieval period, a closer contact between the people of the north and south India could be seen.

- The Cholas regained their glory under Rajaraja I and Rajendra Chola.
- Rajendra Chola reign is described as Golden age of Cholas.
- The Chola empire was well administered. The kingdom was divided into provinces called mandalams.
- Provinces were divided into number of districts called Valanadus.
- The member of village Sabha were required to be educated and well versed in administrative matters. The Sabha settled disputes, gathered taxes and managed temples and schools.
- The Chola temples include the Brihadeshwara temple and many other temples.
- The Hoysaleswara temple is also a fine specimen of art and architecture of this period.
- Caste system very much prevailed in southern India. The 'outcastes' were not allowed to enter the temples.

- The Chola rulers were worshippers of Lord Shiva, but they were tolerant of other religious faiths. The Bhakti Movement in Tamil Nadu was led by Alvars (worship Vishnu) and Nayanars (worship Shiva) saints.

29/08/25

4. The Delhi Sultanate (AD 1206 – AD 1526) –

Sultanate – A kingdom of a muslim ruler (Sultan)

Chalisa – A group of forty powerful nobles formed by Iltutmish to help him in suppressing his enemies.

Mongols – Warrior tribes who lived on the borders of ancient and medieval China. They were domiciled in Mongolia.

Ulemas – Men who were recognised as experts in Islamic theology.

Iqta system – System of giving land grants instead of cash payments for services rendered.

Kharaj – Land tax

Khamas – Tax levied on booty captured in war

Muqaddam = Village headman

Summary -

- The slave dynasty lasted from AD 1206 to AD 1290. Qutbuddin Aibak first established his capital at Delhi. The other dynasties until AD 1526 were those of the Khiljis, the Tughlaqs, the Sayyids and the Lodis.

- Qutbuddin Aibak dynasty was known as slave dynasty as he himself was a slave of Muhammad Ghori. He had a difficult time overcoming the resistance of the nobles.

- Iltumish patronised a group of powerful nobles known as Chalisa.

- Razia Sultan, being a women, had to face great opposition. She was put to death in AD 1240.

- Balban ruled with an Iron hand. He crushed many revolts and destroyed the group of powerful nobles.

- During Alauddin Khilji Conquest of Chittor, Rajput women performed Jauhar. He was the first sultan of Delhi who conquered Southern India. During his reign, the sultanate reached their highest position.

- Muhammad-bin Tughlaq became unpopular on account of taxation in doab and transfer of his capital from Delhi to Devagiri (Now Daulatabad).

- Tamarlane during his raids in 1398 looted and massacred people in Delhi, Meerut, Haridwar, Nagarkot and Jammu.

- During the reign of Ibrahim Lodi, a rebellion spread. Daulat Khan Lodi invited Babur to raid India.

- Sultan was the head of both civil and military administration. His chief minister was called the Wazir. Other key officials were the diwan (the finance minister) and the Qazi (the chief judge).

- The empire was divided into a number of provinces.

- The provinces were divided into shiqs. Each shiq was divided into a number of paraganas like the modern day districts.

- The village was the smallest unit of administration.

- Agriculture was the most important economic activity.
- Many crafts flourished, such as weaving, jewellery making and metal work.
- Iqtadars and muqtis maintained law and order. They supplied soldiers to Sultan in times of war. Balban and Alauddin Khilji kept their Nobles under proper control.
- Ibn Batuta observations were that Muhammad Bin Tughlaq had contradictory qualities. Some Chieftains lived in thick bamboo forests.

"The Sultan was greed of his people and they of him."

Badauni on Muhammad-bin Tughlaq death

Flowchart -

Slave Dynasty (1206 - 1290) → Khilji (1290 - 1320) → Tughlaq (1320 - 1414) → Sayyid (1414 - 1451) → Lodi (1451 - 1526) → Mughal (1526 - 1857)

01/08/25

5. The Creation of an Empire -

Standing army - Regular army ever ready for action or combat.

Ibadat khana - The hall of worship built by Akbar at Fatehpur Sikri. Here religious discussions were held.

Coronation - Ceremony in which crown is formally placed on the head of a new prince.

Khalsa - Term meaning 'The pure' was used for the Sikhs when the tenth Guru, Guru Gobind Singh, began to organize them as soldiers for fighting against the mughal armies Treaty - Agreement between two or more states.

Guerilla - Warfare carried out by small group of soldiers who use tactics to overpower the enemy

Mansab - Rank or position under the Mughals. Each mansab maintained a certain number of horses.

Mughals - Descendants of Timur. Timurid ancestors

Mughal Empire at a Glance

Babur (1526-30)
↓
Humayun (1530-40, 1555-56)
↓
Sher Shah and his Successors (1540-55)
↓
(Sher Shah defeated humayun and Captured the Mughal throne. His successors ruled till 1555. Humayun again captured the throne in 1555 and ruled till 1556)
↓
Akbar (1556-1605)
↓
Jahangir (1605-27)
↓
Shah Jahan (1628-58)
↓
Aurangzeb (1658-1707)

Summary -

- Babur was related to Timur on his father's side and Chengiz Khan on his mother side.
- Ibrahim Lodi, the last ruler of delhi Sultanate, was inefficient.

- Babur invaded India in AD 1525 at the invitation of one of the governors of Ibrahim lodi, Daulat Khan Lodi.
- In the battle of Panipat (AD 1526), babur defeated Ibrahim Lodi and at Khanua (AD 1527) Rana Sanga was defeated.

31/08/25

- By AD 1529 Bengal and Bihar become part of Mughal empire
- Humayun ascended the throne in AD 1530
- As a result of the hostile atitude of his brothers and a few other factors, Humayun was defeated by an afghan Chief Sher Shah Suri in 1540.
- Humayun fled and Suri dynasty ruled India between AD 1540 and AD 1555.
- Sher Shah Suri though 67 years old, during a brief period of 5 years Conquered Malwa, Rajasthan and Sind.
- Sher Shah Created an efficient administrative System and undertook many public welfare projects, such as the Construction of many good roads.
- In AD 1555, exiled humayun re-established the mughal rule in India.

- Humayun's son Akbar ascended the throne in AD 1556 when he was just 13 years old.
- Bairam Khan, trusted friend of Akbar father, was his tutor
- Akbar entered into matrimonial alliances with royal families of jaipur and wanted a similar alliance with Mewar, but the rana of Mewar refused.
- Akbar's rule was the most glorious period of the Mughal era
- The reign of Shah Jahan is considered to be the golden period of the Mughal rule in India
- Aurangzeb ascended the throne in AD 1658 after having defeated his brothers in the war of succession. Dara was killed and Shuja fled.
- Aurangzeb remained busy with wars, first in the north-west and then in Deccan.

- Aurangzeb had to suppress revolts of Jats, Sikhs and Satnamis. He reversed Akbar's policy of religious tolerance (toleration) Guru Tej bahadur was beheaded
- The mughals's conflict with the rajputs continued even after Aurangzeb death.
- Marathas become a strong power under Shivaji
- After the death of Shivaji, Aurangzeb defeated and killed Shivaji's son Sambhaji.
- During Aurangzeb reign, the English and French trading companies become rivals in India.
- Akbar nama and Ain-i-Akbari gives a detailed account of Akbar's administration and the legal and revenue systems of the Mughal empire.

6. The Architecture: Forts and sacred places-

- Monuments are a great source of information for reconstructing the past history.

Garbhagriha - Sanctum where main deity is kept.

Shikhara - The pointed high super structure built on the top of garbhagriha

Gopuram - Gateway of temple in South India

Calligraphy - Decorative handwriting

Baoli - Step wells in Rajasthan and Gujrat used for water harvesting

Dome - Large semi-circular roof

Minars - Slender and tall towers tapering to the top

Canopy - Covering over a bed or a person or a throne

Summary -

- Archaeological heritage can be classified into two categories : Sacred monuments and the secular monuments.
- A number of famous temples were built by rulers in north india - the dilwara temples at mount abu and the khajuraho temples in Madhya pradesh.

- Two types of architectural styles emerged - the nagara styles in North India and the dravida style in South India.
- Domes, arches and minars are important features of the Islamic architecture introduced in India by the turks.
- Quwaat-ul-Islam mosque, Qutub Minar, Alai darwaza and the tomb of Ghiyas-ud-din tughlaq are some of the important monuments of Sultan of Delhi.
- Akbar and Shah jahan were great builders. Akbar's monuments were mainly made of red sandstone. Shah jahan is called an Engineer King.

01/09/25

7. Towns, Traders and Craftsmanship -

Urbanisation - The process of gradual development of a village into a city.

Court Cities - Cities which were seats of royal court or authority.

Port Cities - Cities which were developed due to growth of overseas trade and Commerce

Kalamkari - Style of fabric painting is Andhra pradesh. In this style of painting, a cotton tipped bamboo stick is used for drawing outlines on fabric and then it is dyed in natural colours.

Saltpetre - A crystalline, white, salt substance used as an ingredient for gunpowder. It contains potassium nitrate.

King's balance - Balance by which the rulers were weighed against grains, gold or money which was then distributed among poor. Such practice existed at Hampi.

Summary -

Towns and cities flourished in medieval India due to growth in trade and commerce.

Towns could be classified as court towns (e.g lahore, agra), pilgrimage towns (Varanasi, Ajmer), and ports and trading centres (Surat, Mausulipatnam).

Both internal and external trade flourished. India carried on trade with China, Sri lanka, Arabia and persia.

The main items of export were cotton, clothes, indigo, saltpetre, cloves etc. The imports included horses, perfumes, Chinese pottery and ivory goods.

Mausulipatnam is situated on the coromandal coast in Andhra pradesh.

The british East India company set up its trading port there.

It was known for its carpets and curtains industry. It had a lucrative trade in textiles and spices.

At present some important places of interest are Marginapudi beach, Pandurangaswamy temple and Mausulipatnam church.

Surat has been a major port on the west coast of India. The pilgrims to Mecca sailed from there. The british set up a factory there. Surat lost its importance with the rise of Mumbai (Bombay) as a major port.

- The economic activities in Surat included diamond cutting and polishing, gold brocades (Zari work) and manufacturing of fabrics.

- Hampi was the fortified city of Vijayanagar empire. This empire was founded in AD 1336 by Harihar and Bukka. Krishnadev Raya was the greatest king of the Vijayanagara empire.

- Today hampi is in ruins, but it had beautiful palaces, temples and market places.

- The Vithaldeo temple is dedicated to Vithal or Lord Vishnu. Its construction was started by King Krishnadev Raya (AD 1509 – AD 1530). Its pillars are richly carved by sculptures.

- The Ugra narshimha statue near Virupaksha temple was made of a single rock.

- Hampi has been designated as a world heritage site.

12/09/25

8 Social Change: Mobile and Settled Communities –

Nomads – The members of a tribe who move from one place to other to find food.

Sati – Former Hindu custom of a widow burning herself on the funeral pyre of her husband. It was abolished long ago.

Assimilated – To become a part of a group, community or nation.

Pastoralism – Caring and rearing of animals like camels, goats and cattle.

Tribes – Denote primitive families or communities united by racial bonds and sharing the same customs, religion, language etc. They depend on agriculture, hunting and forest products from their livelihood.

Summary –

- Social life in the middle ages. The Caste System was very dominant both in north and south India. In the middle ages, it has become quite rigid.

- Sati, Child marriage and polygamy were prevalent in India. The muslim society also had its own caste or class structure

- There are hundreds of tribal groups in India. Some of the tribes live a settled life. Others have been nomads continuously moving and having no permanent home.

- Their main problems are poverty, backwardness, illiteracy and seclusion. The government took many steps to promote the welfare of the tribals. Their exists reservation for them in Union and State legislatures and also in government services.

- The Gonds lived in Madhya pradesh, Maharashtra, Chhattisgarh, Andhra pradesh and Central India. The Central region came to be known Gondwana. A number of Gond kingdoms flourished in Gondwana between fifteenth and eighteenth century.

- The most powerful of the gond kingdom was Garh Katanga. Akbar conquered this kingdom.

- The Gonds were traditionally agriculturists. Each Gond Clan has its own deity.

- Assam derives its name from the Ahoms. They belonged to Mao-Shan tribe of China. They overran Myanmar (Burma) and occupied to Kamarupa region. Sukhapa was the first prominent Ahom ruler. The Mughals tried to establish control over Kamarupa or Assam but they failed. At last the Burmese overran their territory but later lost it to the British.

- The Ahom Kingdom was a strong centralized state. The Ahom rulers believed in a system of forced labour. During war all adult males have to join the army. In the seventeenth century the Ahoms were hinduised. The ahom rulers patronised poets and scholars.

- The Bhils constitute the second largest tribal group in the country. It is a very ancient tribe.

9. Popular Beliefs and Religion -

Transition - The process of change from one condition to another.

Orthodox - In line with tradition or religion

Silsila - Chronological order of Sufi disciples, classification of Sufi saints into certain groups

Dohas - Couplets

Adi Granth - The Holy books of Sikhs

Bhakti Saints - Hindu Saints who popularised personal devotion to god. They condemned caste system, idolatory etc.

Sufi Saints - The mystic muslim saints or holy persons who came to India from Persia (Iran).

Urs - Death anniversaries of Sufi Saints.

Summary -

- Islamic faith was brought to India by the Arabs. According to prophet Muhammad, "Their is but one God." The followers of Islam believe in Namaz, Rozas and pilgrimage to Mecca.

- Sufi saints came to india from persia. The most famous Sufi saint in India was Khwaja Muin-ud-din Chisti who founded the Chisti order (Silsila). Another order or Silsila of Sufi saints was called the Suhrawadi order.

- The Bhakti saints of South India were Alvars and Nayanars. Bhakti spread to other parts of India. Some of the bhakti saints were Ramanuja, Madhvacharya, Sant Dhyaneshwar, Namdev, Eknath, Tukaram, Guru Nanak, Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, Mirabai and Kabir.

03/09/25

- Guru Nanak was a great Bhakti reformer. There were 10 Sikh gurus. Guru Gobind Singh founded the Khalsa panth. He announced the end of personal Guruship. Guru granth Sahib was to be their guru.

- Kabir was the disciple of famous saint Ramanand. He emphasised the equality of all religions. He believed in formless (Nirakar) God. He condemned the caste distinctions. His teachings are contained in Bijak (the Seed Book).

- Sant Kabir was a weaver by the profession.

10. Flowering of Regional Cultures –

Gharanas – Styles of music / dance peculiar to a particular school.

Murals – Wall paintings

Raga System – System of Melodies.

Charayapada – Verses written by mystic saints or Siddh acharyas associated with the mahayana form of buddhism in Bengal.

Regional languages – Languages spoken in particular region or state.

Folk music – Music which represents the culture and feelings of the ordinary people.

Summary –

- In the medieval period, there was great development of Indian languages.
- With the coming of Turk – Afgans two new languages developed in India – Arabic and persian.
- Hindi in local dialects Braj and Awadhi grew. All these languages came to have a rich literature.
- During the reign of Rajputs, miniature paintings developed. There were two schools of paintings – The Rajasthani school and the Pahari school. Akbar and Jahangir patronised many ~~paintings~~ painters.
- The hindustani music developed in north india. In South india, Carnatic music developed. Amir khusrau developed a new musical style called Qawwali.
- Bharatnat yam, kathakali, kuchipudi, kathak, Manipuri and odissi were the major classic dance form.
- The Jagannath cult – We see the deities of lord Jagannatha, Balbhadra and Subhadra, painted in brilliant colours, throughout odisha.

11. New Political Formations in Eighteenth Century –

East India Company – The Company regarded as a joint stock company in England in AD 1600. It began to rule India after AD 1750 which continued until AD 1857.

04/09/25

Pink City - Jaipur

Misls - Twelve Sikh Chiefdoms each led by an army Chief

Chauth - One-fourth of land revenue from conquered territories but not ruled directly by the Marathas

Sardeshmukhi - one-tenth of land revenue collected by the Marathas from the areas directly ruled by them.

Coup - Overthrow of a government by army officers or any other group of people.

Summary -

- The Rajputs, the Sikhs and the Marathas asserted their independence soon after the death of Aurangzeb.
- The two powerful brothers, known as Sayyid brothers became the king makers.
- Nadir Shah, king of persia, invaded India in AD 1739.
- Aurangzeb's relationship with the Rajputs were never cordial.

- The power of Sikhs in the late eighteenth century extended from Jamuna to Rawalpindi. Maharaja Ranjit Singh united the 12 Sikh Misls into a powerful kingdom.
- It was is Shivaji in whom the marathas could found their best leader.
- After Shivaji, the power of the marathas state were centralised in the hands of the peshwa.
- Baji Rao (AD 1720 - AD 1740) consolidated the power of the marathas.
- In AD 1761, the forces of Ahmad Shah Abdali defeated the marathas.
- Other independent States is emerged is bengal (under Murshid Quli khan and later Alivardi Khan), Awadh (under Saadat khan) and Mysore (under Haider Ali).
- The Jats emerged as a strong ~~and~~ power under their leader Churaman and later Suraj mal.

- The founder of independent State of Hyderabad was Asaf Jah.

04/10/25 Historical Chronology AD, BC, BCE, CE -

Every year in history has been assigned a number. In Europe during the middle ages, it was just started to assign numbers to each of the years, they had to start from a single point in time.

Time measurement based on Jesus Birth -

The measurement of time is traditionally based on birth of Jesus Christ.

- For events before Jesus birth, type 'BC' (an abbreviation for Before Christ) after the year number.

For example - In 48 BC

- For events after Jesus birth, type 'AD' (an abbreviation for the latin phrase anno domino, which means "year of our Lord") before the number of year.

For example - AD 120

For those who prefer a non-religious version -

BC (Before Christ) = BCE (Before Common Era)

Example - 48 BC becomes 48 BCE

AD (Anno Domino) = CE (Common Era)

Example - AD 120 becomes 120 CE

* AD comes before the date, CE comes after the date, and both BC and BCE comes after the date.

History -

Hebrew calender is founded on the idea of Anno Mundi ("in the year of the world"), which dates events from the moment of earth's genesis as determined by scripture.

Additional Notes -

- If there isn't a 'BC' or 'AD' next to a date, it is probably AD.

- Before the Birth of Christ or Common era, the number of years count down.

but after that, the years count upwards.

- There is no year '0': the year 1 BC is followed immediately by AD1.
- BP after a number stands for 'Before the present'.
- 'Circa' means 'around about' and is a small 'c.' before the year. For example C. 50 BC

(3300–1300 BCE)	(322 BCE – 184 BCE)	(275 CE – 897 CE)	(1858 CE – 1947 CE)
Harappan Civilization	Maurayan Empire	Pallava Dynasty	British Raj

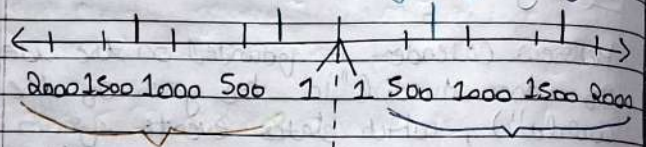

Diagram – BC, BCE, AD, CE and History Dynasties

Early Ancient India

5/10/25

History – Greek word 'historia' which means 'inquiry' or 'knowledge acquired by investigation'.

Three Categories –

1. Pre-history – Events occuring before invention of writing, commonly represented by 3 stone ages.
2. Proto-history – Period between prehistory & history, characterized by absence of developed writing within a culture or civilization.

* Archaeologists characterizes Neolithic and Chalcolithic cultures as protohistory.

3. History – The study of past after advent of writing and the exploration of literate societies through written and archaeological sources form the domain of history.

Indian Stone Age – 3 Categories based on geological age, stone tool types, and subsistence base:

1. Old Stone Age, Paleolithic Age 5,00,000–10000 BCE
2. Late Stone Age, Mesolithic Age 10,000–6000 BCE
3. New Stone Age, Neolithic Age 6000–1000 BCE

1. Paleolithic Age (Hunters and food gatherers) -

* Sustained themselves through hunting and collecting fruits and vegetables.

* Tools - unpolished and undressed raw stones

Sites - Soan Valley and potwar plateau, Siwalik hills, Bhimbetka MP, Adamgarh Hill, Narmada Valley, Kurnool Andhra Pradesh, Attirampakkam

2. Mesolithic Age (Hunters and Herders) -

Rock cut, hunting, fishing, food gathering, gradually incorporating animal domestication in later ages.

Tools - Spearheads, arrowheads and sickles

Sites - Langhanj, Gujarat, Adamgarh, MP, Bagor, Rajasthan, Birbhanpur West Bengal

3. Neolithic Age (Food-producing Stage) -

Advent of food production, engaged in growing crops such as ragi and horse gram (kulathi).

Tools - Polished, pecked and ground stone tools.

Sites - Burzahom and Gufkraal, J&K, Maski, Brahmagiri, Garo hills, Meghalaya, Chirand Bihar

Bronze

4. Chalcolithic Age / Copper Stone Age (c. 3000-500 BCE) -

Simultaneous use of metal and stone tools. Copper was first metal supplemented by bronze.

Tools - Pottery (Black & red)

Sites - Harappan culture, Paiyampalli Tamil Nadu, Kayath, Malwa MP

5. Bronze Age -

Succeeding the copper age. During this era, discovery of bronze, an alloy of copper and tin.

Tools - Wheel, Tongue sword, locks, development of ropes, umbrellas and socketed axe.

Sites - Ahar & Gilund, Banas Valley Rajasthan, South india - river valleys (Godavari, Krishna, Tungabhadra, Pennar & Kaveri)